

Tier 3

Students lag behind their peers by one or more years, demonstrate very weak progress on screening measures, and require intensive intervention.

Tier 2

Students lag well behind their peers, demonstrate weak progress on screening measures, and require some form of intervention.

Tier 1

Students learn at roughly grade level or above, and are least likely to fall behind or need intervention.

